EXCITING CHANGES . . .

To Our Restaurant Appetite for BOP!

At GUARD, we have a BIG appetite for restaurants, and we've recently made some exciting changes — based upon your feedback! — that we hope will help us win MORE of your business.

Our underwriters want to "get to yes" on your quality accounts, so we're taking a closer look at restaurants with certain characteristics that previously fell outside of our appetite. We've also made some changes to our submission requirements that we believe will better streamline the process. In short, we heard you!

What's New?

- Now considering establishments with lower sales per square foot, including new ventures
- Now considering older buildings, including frame construction built before 2000 and masonry non-combustible or better built before 1985
- No longer automatically attaching an Assault & Battery Exclusion to every policy; the exclusion will generally apply only to locations with a crime score more than twice the national average and, in some cases, we may remove subject to underwriting review
- A resume will no longer be required for binding new ventures; questions regarding managerial experience will still apply
- Supplemental Application/data entry now supported for larger schedules (>5)

Review the attachments for more details about our appetite and stay tuned for additional enhancements to our guidelines and submission process.

To make it easy, we've bundled a wide range of safeguards under one insurance form and feature upgrades and extensions all for a single, affordable price. Need extra protection for a particular area? We can do that, too.
